

Joseph Rodichok Joins Woodings/Munroe as Construction Manager.

Woodings Industrial/Munroe Inc. is proud to announce the addition of Joseph Rodichok to the company as Construction Manager. Rodichok brings over 25 years of field construction and supervisory experience in both new facility and retrofit applications, primarily in the power/utility sector.

“We’re very excited to have a person with Joe’s breadth and depth of experience—both domestically and internationally—join our team,” said Rob Woodings, President. “Joe brings a wealth of knowledge and technical expertise that will benefit our customers as well as open expanded opportunities for Woodings and Munroe.”

Rodichok’s background includes 25 years with Combustion Engineering in positions ranging from Construction Field Engineer to Construction Superintendent I and II, Construction Manager, Area Construction Manager and North East Regional Manager. Rodichok also served as North East Divisional Manager for Madison Industrial Services Team for four years, working primarily in fossil fuel utility maintenance applications. His experience includes five years in international new construction.

“Joe has strengths in many areas, including technical, financial and general business savvy, that allow him to do a superior job of planning and scheduling, managing people and knocking projects out,” said Woodings.

Rodichok, a graduate of The Williamson Free School of Mechanical Trades, was raised in the Pottsville, Pennsylvania area. He is Chairman of the Local BM154 Referral Committee and a Trustee of the Boilermakers Lodge No. 154 Welfare and Retirement Fund.

A current resident of Indiana, PA, Rodichok enjoys playing and watching sports and taking care of his house and gardens.
